Einstein Costume a Hit with 9-year old

My grandson was delighted with this Einstein costume which was received in time for him to participate in a class project. The mustache, however, didn't have enough sticking power and kept falling off.

How long have these been on the shelves?

My son wanted to be Albert Einstein for Halloween (2006). The "Einstein Heroes in History Kit" seemed like a good way to get started on his costume. It contained a white wig and mustache. The wig was fine, but the glue on the mustache had dried up completely, leaving a flaky yellow residue on the back. Well, what's an Einstein costume without a mustache? I bought some...

My son wanted to be Albert Einstein for Halloween (2006). The "Einstein Heroes in "History Kit" seemed like a good way to get started on his costume. It contained a white wig and mustache. The wig was fine, but the glue on the mustache had dried up completely, leaving a flaky yellow residue on the back. Well, what's an Einstein costume without a mustache? I bought some eyelash glue ($4.50 for a little bottle), thinking that would solve the problem, but the strong smell wasn't exactly a hit with my 11 year old, and he ended up getting a big red mark over his lip when I tried to apply it. He had to wear a sign that said "I'm Albert Einstein" when he went trick-or-treating. I wore a wild brown wig and a sign that said "I'm Einstein's mother" when I gave out candy.

Had to use extra eyelash glue for the moustache, but otherwise it was a big hit!

My son had a great time with this costume. We bought it for a classroom presentation he was giving, and it was just perfect. The only issue, as other reviewers have mentioned, is the mustache. It doesn't adhere very well. The manufacturer should consider including some other piece of tape or adhesive to improve wear. Otherwise, we really enjoyed this product and recommend it for other Jr. Einsteins!

the cover on the advertised product did not match the cover of what I received, so I hoped it was the same thing! never heard back from the seller. The mustache does not stay on the face and the harid needs to be fluffed a bit before you wear it, but with that said, the 9 year old thought it was fun to dress up with it for her mad scientist costume.

Wig looks pretty good with some shedding. The moustache seems to vary in its size...I bought two, but the most bothersome was the adhesive that does not stick...buy some double-sided tape for the moustache.
